

Unveiling the new, “global cloud” Docebo 6.1 E-Learning platform at Learning Technologies 2014

Docebo & GuyKat Solutions at LT2014, booth 90, present the latest Docebo Learning Management System release, with Amazon S3, Amazon EC2 and Amazon CloudFront support bringing companies a faster learning delivery solution with global reach.

Docebo (www.docebo.com) is attending Learning Technologies 2014, in partnership with GuyKat Solutions (www.guykat.com). The companies will showcase the latest Docebo Learning Management System release, now even more flexible and efficient by leveraging Amazon CloudFront to deliver content worldwide with unprecedented speed.

The Docebo LMS was already delivered “As a Service” via Cloud, allowing companies to have a reliable training tool that could be accessed worldwide with low latency. However, this update further enhances handling of Learning Objects and Online Courses: those training materials can be stored on Amazon’s cloud server, and streamed using a global network of edge locations. With Amazon CDN, streaming content is automatically routed to the optimal edge location near the requester to deliver the best possible performance.

“We are excited about these product enhancements as we have been cloud pioneers and we always trusted in cloud technology” says Claudio Erba, CEO and Founder of Docebo. “By leveraging Amazon S3, Amazon EC2 and Amazon CloudFront services, we are now able to deliver both the LMS and the Online Courses in all the five continents with low latency and a higher data transfer speed”.

“We’re incredibly excited about the roadmap for the Docebo product and looking forward to showing as many L&D professionals as possible why Docebo is such a innovative and disruptive value proposition. As docebo’s UK partners, we’re thrilled that this prestigious international event is being held on our patch and looking forward to co-hosting at the show with our internationally based colleagues” says Guy McEvoy Managing Director - GuyKat Solutions.

Meet Docebo & GuyKat Solutions at booth 90. To schedule an appointment at L&T 2014, please write to info@docebo.com or info@guykat.com.

About GuyKat Solutions

GuyKat are a specialist provider of eLearning solutions. We use the latest learning technologies to create bespoke eLearning and support clients through organisational development or change. We’re proud to be exclusive UK Partners of Docebo. For further information, please visit: <http://www.guykat.com/>